UK Outlook for Wednesday 1 Sep 2021 to Friday 10 Sep 2021:
High pressure likely to hang on at first bringing a continuation of largely fine and dry weather. The centre of the high is likely to remain to the northwest of the UK. To start, this period will likely see the best of any sunshine in the west or northwest with more cloud in the east and the chance of a very isolated slight shower along North Sea Coasts. Continuing through this period, winds likely light to moderate, but fresh for North Sea coasts. Temperatures likely to be near average for most, but below average and cool in eastern regions under the influence of the fresh northeastly breeze with more persistent coastal cloud. Perhaps turning less settled in some western areas later with some showers and longer spells of rain.
